- Page 2: Education office premises (excluding Schools); Family Centres; Leisure and Sport; Libraries.
- Page 3: Museums; One Stop Shops, (Area Housing and Finance offices); Other Premises - Printworks, Sign Factory, Travelling People Site. Registration of births, deaths and marriages; Service Headquarters and other public offices;
- Page 4: Social Work services; Social Work Adult day services; Town Halls.

Some categories of buildings are exempt from inclusion on this list

Schools and educational (teaching) establishments including Nurseries; Residential Homes; Offices with no public service areas; Public Conveniences; and Council owned buildings leased to other organisations where the responsibility for access lies with the lessee.

Falkirk Community Trust occupied buildings are still included if a service is provided and there is public access.

Falkirk Council has an annual prioritised programme for adapting its buildings in order to facilitate access for disabled people to allow use of our services.

In March 2011 Falkirk Council had 133 buildings from which it provided a service to the public under this definition. 107 of these comprising 80.5% were suitable for and accessible to disabled people in all public areas. The list below has some separate entries for different Services based in a single building and some buildings have been closed or have changed use since 31 March 2011 so the list no longer matches these totals exactly. The assessments do not cover the suitability of access to the buildings for disabled staff.

That a building is considered "suitable for and accessible to disabled people" means that practices, policies or procedures make it possible and reasonably practical for disabled people to use a service and that auxiliary aids or services are provided which would enable or make it easier for disabled people to use a service there". Unless specifically exempted, it always includes a provision for wheelchair users.

Access from the public road or car park area to the building entrance and egress from the building must both be sufficient for the needs of disabled people.

Where toilet facilities are provided, facilities for disabled people will normally be required. Buildings judged suitable have been subjected to an accessibility audit or an equivalent assessment covering all aspects of the needs of the disabled person.
