Stance: Customer objects to the Planning Application

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I would like to add to my previous letter of objection as I note that the developer has written the following in his application form...

"Are you proposing any change to public paths, public rights of way or affecting any public right of access? No".

In fact there is public right of access here under the Land Reform Scotland Act. There is an established path on the proposed plot between the two housing developments. The implications of this proposed development with regards to the Land Reform Scotland Act therefore require to be addressed.
